Minutes Review:

- How does the “advisory announcements” hold up long term, is it feasible?
- It might not be ideal to rely on advisory
- Only need a couple of kids to do this for the entire grade
- Go back to the original goal, which was to reduce the vast amount of emails
- Different grades can focus on different announcement template goals
- Very distributive responsibility, if nobody is responsible, then nothing gets done. How do we distribute roles?
- Outline important dates such as SAT, ACT, big school events, etc...
- Google classroom training, do teachers have control over emails and stuff?
- Ordering half (250), give them to the ninth graders and have suggested a donation
- Data Noticings
 - Students feel supported, including identified subgroups
 - How can we support other groups
 - Learning the names of Chinese students faster, etc.
 - AP Exam, confusing pie chart
 - Black and Hispanic males performing on par with Asian.
 - Small sample sizes
 - IEP students feeling unchallenged more than others
 - In grade 12, could it be a class culture in the one ICT section
 - ICT kids seeing other classes and feeling like they could do what the others
 - Teachers may expect less of ICT kids on instinct, need to guard against that instinct
- January 16, next meeting
